

StyleSpeakTM

The salon & spa journal

Vol.9 ■ No.6 ■ 164 pgs ■ August 2016 ■ ₹100

Monsoon Spa Rituals

Monsoon rituals that will help your client heal from inside-out

BIZARRE

beauty!

Wacky & bizarre beauty treatments around the world

GETTING YOUNGER

StyleSpeak lists down anti-ageing mantras for youthful skin!

ARE YOU GAME FOR MANCIALS?

SS lists down step by step of men's facials

FACE 2 FACE

Meet Kryolan's make-up artist Emilie Guillermin

the beauty
issue

Expression of Creativity

Aanchal Khanna shares how her passion for make-up made her aspire to be a make-up artist

Words | Bindu Gopal Rao

Aanchal trained at FAT MU make-up and hair school in Mumbai and has worked for MAC cosmetics for over two and a half years. Make-up to Aanchal is passion, a way to express her creativity. Read on to know about her journey.

How did you stumble upon a career like this?

Like every girl, I have also been inclined towards make-up from a very young age and always had an eye for creativity. My brother always motivated me to do things that I liked and that pushed me to make my passion my career.

What do you like the most about your job?

Enhancing one's features and bringing out the beauty that lies within them. I love it when the most minimalistic make-up makes so much of a difference.

Who or what inspires you?

My biggest inspiration is my brother. He has taught me the importance of being independent. The second person is make-up artist Billy Manik; she has been an inspiration in my career and has motivated me to become a MUA.

Who do you aspire to become like?

Make-up is a form of art and for me to decide one person who I want to be like is very difficult, but a few artists whose work I really follow are Micky Contractor, Billy Manik and Sonic Sarwate.

What are the key trends you are seeing in make-up?

I think trend is a state of mind. I always believe what suites you is the key trend for you. But to name a few clear skin, smokey eyes, highlighted cheek bones are some favourites.

What are your future plans?

To gain as much knowledge in this field because learning is the only way to success and there is no end to learning. I would also want to open a make-up studio in the future. SS

