is also fitted with a jacuzzi. All the rooms have wood flooring and are fitted with top notch wooden furniture including a lovely work desk as well. The living and bedroom areas can also be separated using a wood slider that reveals a large dressing mirror. The bedroom has two large wood cupboards and is fitted with a locker as well. The bed is also huge and again in wood and an attached balcony allows you to soak in the birdsong with fresh mountain air. The colonial interiors also have room heaters, LED TV with satellite channels, exhaustive in-room amenities and complimentary high-speed internet as well.

While you are here, you will have a great time trying the varied food options. Executive Chef Rajan Samal has worked on the menu with much thought making sure that local food is well represented alongside international cuisine. The room tariff currently includes both breakfast and dinner and an extensive buffet is laid out at the in-house restaurant La Providence. The restaurant also has an extended outside seating where a live kitchen counter is open for breakfast, lunch and dinner with a buffet spread as well as an à la carte menu. The other restaurant here is the Bistro 1845 that is modelled on the lines of a French style à la carte bistro and bar that serves a selection of European, Asian and Indian cuisine. This vintage-themed resto-bar is done up with handpicked accessories and will also have the resort's wine cellar and has a nice, cozy feel with warm wood interiors and gives a comfortable sense of nostalgia too. An al fresco seating area here is the place to see the wonderful peach trees that dot the resort. At the Lobby Lounge, you can munch on freshly baked short eats and wash it down with freshly brewed hot coffee. A must try is Chef's eggless brownies which are to die for. You can also speak to the Chef for a cooking class and he is sure to oblige.

The property is set in a way that there are several walking paths that allow you to enjoy the pure air of the hills. The native flowering blooms are a wonderful addition to the landscape. If you are health conscious, a well-equipped gym on the property is the place to head to or take a dip in the temperature-controlled pool (the only one in Kodaikanal). For a relaxing experience head to The Elevation Spa that offers an array of traditional Ayurvedic and Western treatments. Interestingly the spa is set up in the old resting rooms of La Providence and there are five fully equipped massage rooms including a couple's treatment room with attached steam facilities.

When you are here you can sign up for activities like trekking and sightseeing that is charged for additionally. Shruti Shibulal, CEO, Tamara Leisure Experiences Pvt. Ltd. explains, "The Tamara Kodai is about providing unique experiences to our guests retaining our ethos of responsible tourism and sustainability."
